AND EXPLANATION SCHOOL. The Daily Routine of the House-Republican Filibustering and Calling the Roll.

WASHINGTON, May 27 .- SENATE .-Senator Dawes asked leave to correct Senator McDonald's statement of yesterday that supervisors of election were appointed in Massachusetts for the purpose of controlling the election in the interest of the Republican party against General Butler. Senator Dawes said these officers were appointed on the application of members of both parties, and to secure fairness alone. It could not be shown that any legally qualified voter was debarred from voting.

Senator Hoar also spoke on the same subject.

The Senate then took up the bill relative to the transportation of animals. The Ways and Means Committee today agreed to report on Mr. Wood's resolution fixing the date of adjournment for June 10th.

After a lengthy discussion on the bill providing for transportation of animals, the Senate agreed to postpone the sub-ject until the first Monday in December next.

The Senate took up the bill to make subsidiary coin exchangeable for lawful money and for other purposes, and without acting thereon adjourned.

House.—The House bill in relation to removal of cases from State to Federal courts came up in the morning hour, the pending question being on seconding the previous question. Mr. F. Wood appealed to Mr. Townshend, who has charge of the bill, to permit its reference or recommitted so as not to have it blocking up the business of all other committees. Mr. Townshend however regarded it as his duty to press for action on the bill. The Republicans then resorted to the policy of withholding their votes and this rendered it necessary for a call of the House, which was followed by roll call. On motion to dispense with further pro-ceedings and the morning hour having expired, the bill went over without action. The House then proceeded to consideration of the bill to prevent the introduction of contagious or infectious diseases into the United States, the Senate bill in relation to that subject being substituted for the House bill of like character.

The House passed the contagious disease bill as it came from the Senate, without amendment. It now awaits the President's signature to become a

I desire to correct two mistakes which have been made by some of the newspapers. One is that "Thurman will not be here," which is doubtless a mistake. He has accepted the invitation to deliver the address before the two literary societies, and has assured us that if he possibly can he will be here. Another mistake I have noticed in the papers is, that they have our com-

Dr. Hoge, of Richmond, Va., will preach the Baccalaureate sermon. Hon. S. F. Phillips, Solicitor General of the U. S. delivers the address before the Alumni, Hon. A. G. WAKE FOREST, May 27 .- Our usually juiet village was this morning at 8 clock the scene of another of very brilliant murriages which have graced the chapet so often of late years. This time the happy contracting parties were Professor Simmon's beautiful daughter, Miss Ada Lee, and Edward W. Timberlake, of Louisburg. They were attended by the following bridesmaids and groomsmen:

Miss Viola Jones and Mr. Thos. J. Simmons, Miss Lou Walters and Mr. G. T. Pritchard, Miss Mary W. Montague and Professor N. G. Gulley, Miss Nannie G. Womack and Mr. J. F. Mc-Millan, Miss Emma Purefoy and Dr. D. T. Cook, Miss Florence Davis and Dr. Joyner, Miss Annie Brewer and

W. E. Egerton. Prof. W. B. Royall in his usual happy manner performed the very interesting ceremony. The bride and groom looked unusually happy and made a fine appearance. The bride was beautifully dressed, and we can but wish her life may be a long one, and as happy and propitious as the indication at this the dawn of her new life would augur. Mr. Timberlake is a promising young lawyer, has thoroughly prepared him-self for his profession, and even now has won an enviable position among his colleagues at the bar. Mr. Timberlake and lady left on the morning train for a northern tour, amid the congratu-lations and good wishes of friends.

"Got any Nails?"

Cincinnati Saturday Night. He was just full enough not to know grindstone from a ribbon block, and ne came sailing along Fourth street tacking from side to side like a ship going against the wind. He struck a dry goods store at last and stumbled in and a pretty girl clerk came to wait on him. "Hick," he said, "you got any nails?" The girl was a little bit scared, but she told him no, that was a dry goods store and they didn't keep nails n stock. Then he went out and started ahead again, but took a creel in himself and turned and got into the same store again, "Hie," he said, "you got any nails?" This time the girl was a little provoked, "No," she said, "a hard-ware store is the place to get nails; we don't keep them." Out he went again and started off as before, but got turned again, and came back to the said, "you the third time. "Hic," he said, "you got any nails?" Now the girl was and she snapped out, "No, we again, and came back to the same place ain't got any nails; you're drunk, and you want to stay away from here."
"Hic," he answere!, "you ain't got no nails?" "No, we haven't." "Well (hie), if you ain't got no nails, how the deuce do you scratch your head?" The policeman took him off before her answer was sent in to his conundrum.

Wages of Labor and Cost of Living. The May returns to the Department of Agriculture show that the average wages of labor, without board, on yearly engagements have declined from $21.29 per month to $20.26, or 4.8 per cent. during the past year. The cost of board of farm laborers declined 4.16 per cent., or from $7.45 per month to $7.14. Four States and two Territories show an increased rate of wages—Minnesota, Colorado, California, Oregon, Mexico and Washington Territory. All other States show a decline. This decline is greatest in Vermont, 30 per cent.; Maryland 23 per cent., and Vir-ginia 181 per cent. The cost of sub-sistence has advanced in four States and two Territories – New Jersey, Penn-sylvania, Texas, Colorado, New Mexico and Washington Territory. All other States show a smaller cost of subsistence. Vermont declines 37 per cent. in the price of board, and Maryland 40 per cent. The general tone of correspond ence is hopeful of a revival of industry and the surplus of unemployed labor is growing less. Good labor can generally find employment at fair prices. Many are idle because they will not accept the reduced wages offered.

Atlanta Constitution. Action and reaction. There's always calm after a storm-winter succeeds summer and mince pie and fruit cake are followed up by internal commotion. It is a pity a man can't indulge in a little frolicscme hilarity with a passel of genial editors without taking a fit of the blues as soon as they are gone. It ain't the result of any excesses I know, for they were the soberest set of gentlemen I ever saw; our mountain air and limestone water seemed exhilarating enough without any fluid extracts, and as for big dinners I know I didn't get my share according to appetite, for just as we had squared ourselves before a sumptuous feast the whistle blowed for Taylorsville and we departed in sad and unceremonious haste. I reckon the trouble is that a lonesome farmer don't get such an overdose of mental recreation very often and when he does the collapse is bound to come. I weeded the onions and thinned out the beets and went down to the branch with the children to catch minners but

"A feeling of sadness came o'er me That is not akin to pain, And resembles sorrow only As the mist resembles the rain."

So at the last I concluded to go over and see Gaston. I like Gaston. He is always happy. He lives in a cabin with a shed-room, and has a horse and a cow and some pigs and chickens, and all his life has been tending rented land. He works hard and lives rough, and always looks on the bright side

"You lost your mule the other day, Gaston? "Well, yes," said he. "It sot me back right smart for a while, but I reckon its all well enough. You see, squire, he wasn't much of a critter, and got him for an old debt that was dean out of date, and the feller I had hired quit me the day before, and he was a mule I never had much confidence in and was afeered he mout hurt some of the children, and my corn was gittin powerful low, and so after all I reckon it's for the best."

"But how are you agoin to run your crop without another horse and another hand?" said I.
"Oh, as to that," said Gaston, "I've got a chunk of a boy engaged, and the Widow Cramer wants me to use her nag as long as I'm in a pinch."

"Your corn looks like it wanted rain pretty bad," said I. "Well, yes," he replied, "a shower would help it, but while its dry and hot

As it is they wont bother me much about harvestin, I'll have all the more time in the cotton patch and my cow will do mighty well in the oats if they are scatterin.

"Gaston, I want you to tell me honestly-do you ever have the blues? "Well, squire, I reckon maybe I do have a few sometimes, but I don't let em bother me long. There's folks a heap worse off than I am, and when I git the blues I go to thinking about them. Theres Billy Jenkins over here who is down with the rumatics and his wife is losin what little sense she used to have and their last child is a clubfoot, and then there's old man Biller over yonder who is the poorest rich man I ever see, and he don't have no peace day or night for fear he'll lose some of his money that he's got loaned He's got the dyspepsy awful. Well, when I have a bit of bad luck I go to thinkin about sich as them, and I'm all right again in a few minutes. You know, squire, my wife is an on common purty woman, though I do say it, and my children are all sound and likely and I'm a schoolin of em a little, and we've never suffered for semething to eat. Ive got along amazin well since the war, considerin.

"Gaston," said I, "do you owe any body anything?" "Exactly so, squire; that's what I was comin to: thats what gits me. If it wasent for a little passel of money that

"How much is it.," said I; "Well, "How much is it.," said I; "Well, squire, I dont know prezactly to a dollar, but its somewhere betwixt and between 25 and 30 dollars. It aint so very much, but then, a little debt these hard times is the devilishest thing to eatch up with I ever see in my life. I've been trying to overtake it now nigh unto 19 years and I haint done it yet. You see I owed a little money when jined the army, and, when I was a fightin it was a growin and after the war was over I kept payin and payin and had about cotch up with it when my old wound broke out afresh and I lost my crap and had a doctor's bill to pay, and altogether it sot me back nigh nto a thousand dollars: but I've work ed that down right smart, and if the good Lord will trust me this year I think I will wipe it all out. I teli you, squire, debt is the worst thing I ever experienced. Thunder and lightning aint nowhere. The fact is I'd rather risk a small war and Yankee bullets for debts makes cowards of us all. Ive seen the time when I was afeerd to go to town, for it did look like I could meet them fellers I owed, more times, and at more corners than anybody else, and sometimes one would holler at me clean across the square, "Gaston! Oh, Gaston! John Gaston! I say! let me see you a minute." And then it would take me mighty nigh half an hour to tell it all over to him, why I hadent paid, and what was my future pros pects. Positively I've walked round a whole square to slip in somewhere where they wouldent see me, to buy a plug of tobacco or a spool of thread."
"Debt is a hard master," said I.
"That it is, squire; and I was a read-

in last Sunday about David; and it read hat when David went to the cave of Adullum to start a little army to fight Saul, everybody care to him who was discontented or in debt. My conscience! said I, that's a new idea for raisin an army. It beats conscription all to death, If our government had only thought about it, and passed a law that the sol-diers' debts should all be wiped out, I believe we would have whipped the fight. Well, the next time the Yankees stir up a fuss, we'll know exactly what kind of a horn to blow. I do think David was about the smartest man, perhaps."

I've been feeling better since I interviewed Gaston. He's a good man; and General Wofford told me a better soldier never shouldered a musket or slung a canteen.

A CAGED MURDERER.

Whose Existence Seems to Have been Forgotten. Atlanta Constitution. It is seldom that a whole community entirely and within a short time lose sight of a willful and deliberate murder, but we believe that nineteen-twentieths of the people of Atlanta have forgotten that a white man is lying in Fultor county fail under sentence of death for killing a man inside the corporate limits of Atlanta less than nine months ago. Such is the fact, and only the past week the supreme court of the State affirmed THE JUDGMENT OF DEATH. The name of the unfortunate con-demned is James Alford. He was a young married man, a laborer in the rolling mills, and a person of the ordinary walks of life, unendowed with education or the graces of refinement. In fact, when upon trial for his life, he gave more the indications of idiocy than complete sanity.

The murder with which he was charged was committed in front of the rolling-mill store, about 9 p. m. of the 7th day of last September, the victim being David Shuler, another rolling-mill workman. Alford was tried in Fulton supreme court on the 9th of October and found guilty and was sentenced to

AT THE HANGMAN'S HANDS.

The circumstances of the killing may be briefly stated here: On the night in question, Alford en-countered Shuler upon the steps of the store after its doors were closed. Shuler was very drunk, and in that condition was an abusive and quarrelsome person; at a suggestion made by some one other than these two, Alford endeavored to get Shuler to go home, but Shuler refused, and some words passed be-tween them; Alford renewed his efforts and Shuler caught him in the shirt and tore it; Alford said something about "not liking it a d-d bit" and Shuler cursed him with vile names; Alford picked up a cinder to strike Shuler, but was made to throw it down by a person present. Shuler soon after said "Jim, I see your knife in your hand," and Alford was then made to put up his knife later on they crossed the street and Shuler sat down upon the doorstep of the rolling-mill office; Alford again confronted Shuler, and said, "Dave, you tore my shirt and I don't like it a d—d bit." Shuler said, "If you don't like it I will tear the whole d—d shirt off." Witnesses swore that Shuler about this time said he had "ran away from Florida for killing a man." grappled each other and wrestled into the street, upon the track, and Alford with his knife in his hand began to cut Shuler. He cut several times, when is the best time in the world to kill | Shuler said, "For God sake, stop, Jim, don't cut me to death." Alford contin-"Your fall oats seem to be a failure, ued to cut until Shuler fell, exclaiming, "Stop, Jim, for God's sake-you have killed me now! Alford then turned Shuler loose and ran away down the street.

SHULER DIED THAT NIGHT from the effects of his wounds, which were eight in number, the fatal ones being in the abdomen. He was cut open until his entrails fell out upon the ground. Shuler was not armed at all, and was so drunk as to be almost helpless. Alford was drinking, but no nearly so affected as was Shuler.

Alford disappeared, but was tracked by Captain Redding and his blood-hounds and caught in a tree in Cobb county three days after the homicide and brought back to answer for his crime. He gave up his knife and claimed that the killing was done in self-defense under his apprehension that Shuler meant to do him bodily harm to the extent of a felony. Upon the trial the testimony was direct and positive FROM ALL THE EYE-WITNESSES and nothing was left for the jury to do but find him guilty of murder. He was ably and vigorously defended upon the trial by Judges W. F. Wright and J. D. Cunningham.

Alford received his sentence with composure amounting almost to indifference and went back to jail to await the result, of further efforts promised him by his attorneys to secure his release.

The motion for a new trial was over ruled in the court below and an appeal taken to the supreme court upor signments of error in the rulings of the court. The case was argued some ten days ago by Solicitor General Hill for the State and Judge Wright and Cunningham for the defense. The su-preme court, in its last opinion, finds that under the law, as rightly charged, the testimony was sufficient to affirm the judgment of the court below. Under this decision

ALFORD MUST HANG unless the Governor interposes, as h will be heavily pressed to do, and com-mutes the punishment from death to imprisonment for life at hard labor in the penitentiary. We learn that every possible effort will be made to secure such commutation and with it the defendant will be content.

It is probable that Alford will be re sentenced during the coming week, when Judge Hillyer will fix the time when the condemned shall expiate his crime upon the scaffold.

A REPLY TO "RUTHERFORD" AND

The correspondence lately in the NEWS signed "Burke" and another signed "Rutherford" in regard to the examination of the affairs of the W. N. C. R. R., does great injustice not only to the clever gentlemen who composed the committee of investigation, but it (without the shadow of a reason that any one can see) goes on and attacks the president and the secretary and treasurer of the road in truly Bombas'es Furioso style, and with the same amount of discretion, so far as your humble correspondent can judge, as that displayed by that renowned knight of Spain, Don Quixote, when he attacked the wind-mills, and, we think, with

If either of these gentlemen-or is there only one?-knew anything that would cast discredit upon the managemen of the road and affected the character of the men who run it, the time to have spoken was when the committee was here; and truly from the tone of their communications no one can believe that these gentlemen who display so much vigor in the prosecution would have hesitated to do so. We should think they would have gone before the committee without the formality of a sumpons and without notification, and even without the hope of reward. They did not give any evidence that cast any discredit, even the slightest, upon James W. Wilson and George P. Erwin or any officer of the road, and if they had any evidence that would have done so they as honest men and as good citizens were under obligations to give it in. We like to think they are both good citizens, and therefore we think they had none of that sort of evidence in stock: and, again, from their willing-ness to injure if possible the good fame of a man under anonymous signa-tures, we think if they had known anything they would not have hesitated to "tell it in Gath and publish it in the

"Rutherford" says "great anxiety was manifested by the committee to find out who prompted the investiga-tion." We cannot see why such anxiety was manifested when it is a well known fact that it was commenced under a resolution offered by Hon. B. A. Berry in the House of Commons, and they were appointed under said resolution and in accordance therewith, and we cannot under the circumstances see why he should manifest such great anxiety to find out who prompted the investigation, as they doubtless knew under whose resolution they were appointed. It is true that after a careful and diligent inquiry, as your cor-respondent is informed and believes, and after examination of those witnes es whose names were handed them by Mr. Berry and on whose testing, after going over all the evidence and eeing that Jas. W. Wilson and Geo. P. Erwin were far from from being under a cloud of suspicion, they did endeavor to find out why the investigation was commenced, and in their opinion they succeeded in doing so, as they state, on page 8 of these reports, saying that they be-lieved it originated in personal preju-dice, which some term malice."

Again, all of the witnesses who names were given them by Mr. Berry, some thirty in number, and on whose evi-dence Maj. Wilson was to be convicted of mismanagement—all of these were examined, and although some of them showed a willingness to inform of even more than they knew of their own knowledge, still the committee say in regard to the whole, in summing up, that "not one has in the slightest degree substantiated these charges, but on the contrary have uniformly controverted have? Maj. Wilson has some enemies, but who has not? and even among his bitterest enemies there are none who do not know him to be as honest as men usually get to be in this day and gen-eration, and those who attack his char-acter will find it but the best way to increase his popularity. As an assassin from some covert attacks those whom he dare not face openly, so does an anonymous correspondent who shelters himself behind a nom de plume. Only some people value character above life, and consequently this is the greater erime, and we ask these correspondents to try and see if they can coax a slight suffusion of their faces (we think it ought to come), and sin no more in this If they can do this, there is yet nope for them.

I write not in behalf of Maj. Wilson, but in behalf of "JUSTICE."

Great Industry We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column of Messrs. John Clark, Jr., & Co.'s best six cord spool cotton. In calling attention to the "trade mark" recently introduced by this celebrated firm, a brief reference to the importance of the industry with which their name has been so prominently connected for the past sixty years will be certain to interest all dealers in spool cotton and the public at large. Their thread was first imported into the United States (as spool cotton), the first consignment of which arrived at the port of New York in the year 1818. Since that date it has held a leading position, no other six-cord thread surpassing it in quality, and but very few have been claimed to equal it. The name of John Clark, Jr., & Co., has always been accepted as a guarantee for quality and honesty, and their skill and integrity has been rewarded by the extensive patronage bestowed upon their thread and the confidence and high esteem in which they are held by the whole mercantile world. The manufacture of spool cotton ranks among the first in importance represented in the growth and development of the great industries of Great Britain and the United States. Few who look upon a spool of thread are aware of the labor, capital and machinery that are required to prepare it for market and fit it for the consumer's use. There is no one industry, either in the old world or the new, that requires greater perfection of machinery, skill in operatives and minuteness in detail than that of the manufacture of six-cord spool cotton. The perfection to which spool thread has attained in its present production, is due to the experience and capital that have been expended in its development ever since the commencement of the present cen-

Among the first of the large manufacturers that engaged extensively in this country was the late Mr. John Clark, Jr., the founder of the firm of which we are speaking, who came to Glasgow, Scotland, in 1816, in conse-quence of his mills at Paisley being destroyed by fire. He there, by his ness that now, under the style of John Clark, Jr., & Co., extends, through the equires the production of 80,000 thread

twisting spindles and the daily employ ment of 1,100 hands.

The machinery is worked by compound engines of 400 horse-power, to which steam is supplied by ten boilers.

One of the landmarks of the city is the chimney stack of the mills, which tow-ers upward to the height of nearly 250 Within the enclosure is an artesian well, sunk 120 feet, from which wa-ter was furnished at the rate of 400 gallons per minute. The whole of the arrangement of the works is of a very high order, and clearly indicates that the utmost care is taken in every department to insure the uniformity and excellence for which John Clark, Jr., & Co.'s Six-Cord Spool Cotton is so justly celebrated.

At the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia in 1876, they obtained a diploma for excellence in color, quality and finish, which was the highest award granted to spool cotton, and in addition the same amount of success. to which they have been granted medals at London, Paris and Vienna. The skill and enterprise of the firm is strikingly displayed in the production of Colored Thread, when it is considered that no less than forty-two different shades are necessary to meet the demands of customers. These shades are of the most delicate and varied hues, and adapted to all varieties of dress material in American or foreign fab-rics. They include Spanish Linen, Linen Drab, Olive Drab, Steel Drab, Mid, Quaker Drab, Dark Quaker Drab Steel Slate, Saxon Blue, Light Slate, New Slate, Mid Slate, and Blue Slate. A new system of dyeing introduced by the firm imparts to these delicate colors a rich gloss which closely resembles and is only to be found in Silk Threads, while the strength and elasticity is so thoroughly preserved as to render them in every way perfect. Their White Thread being wound upon black spools, its place in the mar-ket has been more distinctive than any other brand, and in order the better to preserve and maintain the distinctive character of their entire line of White, Black and Colored, and to prevent the probability of their labels being copied or imitated at any future time, they have now introduced a trade mark, which has been duly registered at the Patent office at Washington, and which will hereafter appear upon the bottom ticket of every spool and on the box labels, namely, the word "Mile-End," the name of their Glasgow factories. THE P. O. IN OXFORD.

THE ASSISTANT POST MASTER'S DEFALCATION.

Who is the Silver Haired Man? A Nervous Assistant-Just Seventeen Hundred Dollars Needed

Correspondence of the News. Oxford, May 25.—Our town has had some excitement in the last day or two, which was caused about as follows: On Friday, 23d, about eleven o'clock, a buggy containing a driver and a silverhaired gentleman, about forty-five, drove up to our hotel. The gentleman alighted, and instead of registering at once walked up town, when we saw him cordially grasp the hand of two of our leading lawyers. That was evidence to us that he was not an entire stranger. After a word or so, with a parting salute and with the words "I will see you again," he soon disappeared behind the corner leading toward the post office. In about thirty minutes with a quick nervous step, the assistant postmaster was seen making from the post office toward a livery stable where he left an order to deliver a buggy to Geo. Branch, a colored driver, and in ten minutes at the outskirts of the town he was seen to get into the aforesaid buggy and the last heard of him he had crossed into Virginia. In twenty minutes after the departure of the assistant postmaster, the silver-haired gentleman referred to, called at one of our leading stores and aske l if there was any deposit in their safe of any funds belonging to the post office order department. The answer was in the negative. With quick steps he

DOLLARS. It was near dark before it became known that even the assistant post-master had ran away, and this was dis-covered by asking why it was that this gentleman (unknown to us) was pre-siding over a caucus, in which four or five of our leading citizens seemed to be much interested. Of course the lawyers got to moving; an attachment was issued against the property of the aforesaid postmaster, which property consisted in bar and fixtures, billiard table, etc., at a well known "boy de-stroyer" the "Dew Drop Inn," of Ox

Upon inquiry I was informed that our silver-haired friend was Col. Thos. B. Long, special agent postoffice de-partment, who had dropped in on our partment, who had dropped in on our wayward and transgressing assistant postmaster, and his examination had been so swiftly to the point that the nervous system of the young official gave way, and he flew off to keep from a trip to Albany, N. Y.

The caucus turned out to be a meeting of the sureties of the postmaster. The course postmaster fell heavily upon his aged father and mother authors "orfie" aged father at once mortgaged his home that he had saved, in which to spend his de-clining years, and a very large portion of the amount was paid at once. The entire community sympathizes deeply with the distressed family, but the ladies all join in saving special agent Long is the most practical temperance reformer that has ever been in this community; that is to say, his work brought forth more work in a short time, to wit, the closing this den where so many of our boys were learn-ing the strength perhaps, not only of a mixture of barley, wheat, corn and rye, but the demoralizing amusement of reading a full history of the four kings.

The conduct of this government official, sent here to discharge this delicate work, is worthy of all commendation for he done all he could to heal the wounds he was forced to make.

Driving a Bargain.

An honest miner sat in a contemplative mood before the door of a saloon in one of the thoroughfares of Denyer. He had "taken sugar in his'n" several times, and now cast a wishful look at intervals toward unprospected regions in the footbills where he hoped to strike a tellurium lead, now that "the placer diggins was played out." Slowly down the street came a solitary horseman ill mounted poorly clad, meagerly equip-ped, and stopped in front of the sitter. "Stranger," said he, "I want to sell

"Stranger," was the reply, "I don't want him. "Stranger," rejoined the wayfarer, "yer must buy him. Yer never see a etter horse for the price." "What is the price, stranger?" asked the contemplative man.

The inquirer meditated for a few moments and then blandly remarked: "Stranger I'll give you five. The equestrian dismounted, saving with earnestness: "Stranger, I won't allow a hundred and forty-five dollars to stand between

A new company has been organized in New York, under what is known as the Manhattan charter, to run the two elevated railroads. It is stated that the Manhattan Company will issue $13,000,-000 of its stock to the New York and Metropolitan Companies, $6,500,000 to each. This issue is partly on account of the payment to the Manhattan Com-$9,000,000 or $10,000,000 in equal parts by the two elevated railway companies. This will be used for the completion of the lines. It seems to be the general sentiment of the newly organized company that there shall b o crossings on the same level. There will be no increase of fares, and as soon as business justifies it, it is promised that the rates for passenger traffic shall be reduced. As a result of the practical consolidation of the two elevated railroads, Sunday trains will begin running on the Sixth avenue line of the Metropolitan road about the 1st of June The question of all night trains over that line and the Ninth avenue line of the New York road has not been settled. The Manhattan Company begins operations June 5th.

Col. Frederick W. A fearful hai storm and water spout deluged the whole country, and Jones and Bough-ton undertook to escape in a small boat. It was capsized by the wind and flood, and the daring sportsmen went down. Their bodies have not yet been recovered.

MORE FACTS AND FIGURES FOR

THE PEOPLE. In a former issue we endeavored to show how the people had been made to suffer by the financial policy of the Republican party, in which we expressed our doubts of the return of prosperity until the causes which created the trouble had been removed. outraged even in Boston. Without We are not now considering the questions involved in the discussions of the ward other than from his own connecessity for a sound paper currency, science; against the advice of his nor the other question involved as to the propriety of an increase in such currency. Gold then became the only medium by which National, State and personal debts could be paid at par. The evil effects followed immediately. The price of any article is governed by the rules of supply and demand. That which is scarce, bears high price and that which is plentiful a low price. Money at once became scarce and as the products of labor were forced into market to pay debts and supply the necessities for living lated to old Jubal Early. the bondholders and money changes became masters of the situation. All property of every kind tumbled down ruin of the people was complete. Debts made at the time when produce was high had to be met, the laborer still was compelled to feed and clothe his wife and children, but the means to pay the debts were reduced to half valuation and labor to half pay. We have shown in a former issue the effect produced on wheat and cotton, and could make the same statistical exhibit of all the products that go into the market. When the farmer purchased ten yards of cloth and agreed to pay for it in five bushels of wheat, the price agreed on being 50 cents per yard for the cloth and $1 per bushel for the wheat, he made a contract that he was able to comply with. But how great must be his astonishment when informed that the Government which promises him protection has made a law which is equivalent to declaring that it shall take eight pecks to make one bushel. This very injustice and outrage has been done, for he can get now no more meney for two bushels of wheat than he could get for one bushel first of your good-for-nothing breed !

THE WHISKY THIEF NORTH AND SOUTH. The Republicans have been congratulating themselves of late upon the accession of the Chicago Times to the ranks of those who support the veto. Perhaps they will be equally pleased to see what the Times says with regard to that Southern defrauding of the revenue, which the "stalwarts" find so wicked. On this head the Times says: Plant a whisky thief in Cincinnati, Peoria, Milwaukee, St. Louis or Chicago; let him corrupt gaugers, and storekeepers, and collectors, and editors and party politicians, and let him defraud the government of millions upon millions of its revenue, and he is pardoned ublican administration. But let a poor devil of a mountaineer, whose apparatus wouldn't distill enough stuff to keep a Michigan Senator in bad humor, seek to defraud the government of a little revenue in order that he may keep body and soul together and he is hunted down with all he vigilance of a sleuth hound. He of a sewing-circle, hasn't anything wherewith to grease the wheels of official machinery, and he's doomed, not only as a defrauder of his country, but as a Southern traitor who defies the general government. Talbott's Patent Spark Arrester, THE INVENTION OF THE AGE. Talbott's new Patent Spark Arrester is really the only perfect and reliable one, and is superseding all others in use. The great efficiency of this Arrester is attracting universal attention, and is being endorsed by the best mechanical engineers and insurance companies.

Its prominent features are: It does not destroy the draft. It does not interfere with cleaning the tubes.

It will not choke up, and requires no cleaning.
It requires no direct dampers to be opened when raising steam (dampers being objectionable, as they may be left open and allow sparks to escape.) It requires no water to extinguish sparks, which, by condensation, destroys the draft. Besides, when water is used, if neglected, the efficiency is destroyed by evaporation of the water, and the boiler is kept in a filthy condition.

It is simple and durable, and can be relied upon.

It can be attached to any boiler. No planter should be without one of them. Insurance companies will insure gins and barns where the Taibott Engines and Spark Arresters are used at same rate as charged for water or horse-power.

B. L. PERRY,

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY! The Digest of Cited Cases

North Carolina Reports. By Hon. A. W. Tourgee. We are happy to announce to the legal profession that this valuable work is now ready for delivery to subscribers. The labor of preparation and the necessity of securing the utmost possible accuracy in the immense number of citations, has necessarily delayed the work, but the result cannot but be satisfactory to every practioner. It contains every case in the Reports of the State which has been cited by the Court, the cases in which cited, whether with approval or disapproval, with a careful digest of the point of citati (1), with a full and accurate index to the subject matter of each. In form, matter, completeness and style of publication, it is undoubtedly the best law book ever published in the State containing 750 large double-column pages, 5,62 cited cases and about 30,000 citations.

It will be mailed to subscribers on receipt of the price $12 with 25 cents for postage. of the price $12 with 25 cents for postage, or sent by Express C. O. D. when there is an office convenient. Persons desiring to have the work should order at once, as the edi-tion is a limited one.

One of the most useful and successful books ever published or sold in this State is "Tourgee's Di-gest of Cited Cases." Although now bout ten days from the press more than one hundred copies have already been sold. The lawyers say that the are saved many hours of tedious la-bor by the use of this book. Published by Alfred Williams & Co., Raleigh, Price $12.00.

A Fine Dinner. An extra fine and very toothsome dinner was served at the Yarboro House vesterday, Mr. Lewellen, the efficient steward is responsible for the "get up." The table was spread with such viand as the following: Turtle soup, spring lamb, barbecue, stuffed chicken, ribs o premium beef, pork and beans Boston style, all the vegetables, including cu-cumbers. The cooking is the main thing, you know, and this was well done.

The Death Pit.

The fine cistern on Hillsboro street at the junction with Harrington, is a large yawning chasm, a sort of silent death pit. A runaway team might conveniently break down the slight railing that incloses it and dash headlong down to destruction. It would furnish a live item for the reporters but a decidedly dead one for the poor victim. The hole has been so for a month and the chances are it will continue so a month or two

Permanent Improvements.

Solid improvements on the streets are going on at the intersection of Fayetteville and Martin streets, at the crossing as you go to the Post Office. The rock foundation is seven feet wide and three feet deep. The work is well done and the best in the city. There are six gentlemen in this city each weighing two hundred and fifty pounds who are wanted to stand on the rocks and setle them before it rains. It will be completed to-morrow.

An Intolerable Nulsance

About as great a nuisance as can be imagined is the prolonged howling during the night, of the lean, dirty, miserable degs that infest the city. A stranger would imagine that every res-Hent owned at least ten, and that they were turned loose at nightfall to organize a seronading party for his especial benefit; and if ever a man is entitled to swear it is at that time when his rest is invaded by this unmitigated curse. It is surprising how the owners of these miserable curs, as well as those living close by can stand their yelping half the night, when even those two blocks distant are so terribly annoyed. And it may be imagined how very injurious It must be to the nervous, and more especially the sick, to be obliged to lie awake and listen to the unearthly noises made by these worthless whelps. The late Caleb Cushing said that he be principally remembered after death from having stopped the howling of Fernando Wood's big dog; and he ought to have a tight-muzzled dog or his mon-ument in commemoration. The police should be instructed to abate this nulsance as speedily as possible.

Mr. J. W. Foutz, general Southern traveling agent for John Clark, Jr. & Co., the noted thread manufacturers, was in the city yesterday. He reports business of his house as progressing in a satisfactory manner, a natural sequence of business tact and ability on the part of the agent as well as the excellent quality of the Mile-End thread. nt quality of the far famed Clark's Lawyer Cooke, of Warrenton, left for home this morning, after spending a few days in Raleigh.

J. A. Ramsey, Esq., of Salisbury, is registered at the Yarboro House.

Col. W. F. Green, of Franklinton, is at the same hotel. Mr. James Webb, Jr., of Hillsboro, is in the city.

Col. John D. Cameron, the able editor of the Hillsboro Recorder, registered at the National yesterday. He has been making additions to the material of his office preparatory to his removal to Durham, where he will permanently locate his excellent paper, which in fu ture will be called The Recorder. The Colonel expects to move about the 15th of June. Col. T. M. Holt, President of the Agricultural Society and the N C. R. R., is in the city.

Mr. W. T. Boyd, editor of the enterprising Warren News has been in Raleigh for the past day or so.

A Beautiful Lawnful of Beauty.

The prettiest spot in the northwestern portion of the city may be said to be he elegant residence and handsome lawn occupied by Mr. Julius Lewis on fillsboro street, just beyond the bridge. nder any circumstances this is a beautiful place, but on yesterday evening about the hour of five, the grounds wore an unusually gala appearance. Here and there a group of young ladies and their beaux interspersed the lawn, some sitting on the rustic benches under the shade trees, while others gathered about on the piazzas that encircled the house. Now and then a couple more sentimental, would slowly stroll ver the more distant walks, occasionally plucking a rare flower, with which the yard is filled.

Kind fortune smiled on the reporter, he held a carte blanche to participate in the pleasures of "that scene. went in lighthearted and free. There were many proper expressions and many pretty looks-the young ladies were from Peace Institute and the young gentlemen from Strong's law class, both said to be very fine educational institutions. However this may be, it was certain none of that party could talk any better than they could eat, in fact hardly so well. A table groaning with the choicest luxuries known to party occasions was spread in rich profusion, and when that is the case, and the young ladies and gentlemen are told to "help themselves," it is natural to suppose there will be a slight full in the conversation-at least for a moment.

It was a very handsome compliment from Mrs. Lewis to the young ladies of Peace Institute, and will long be remembered by all who participated in the feast. The reporter came out from "that scene" a different man.

The New Stock Speculation The new combination method of operating in stocks which Messrs, Law rence & Co., Bankers, N. Y., have inaugurated, is attracting much attention in financial circles, by reason of its remarkable success. A customer in Providence, invested nine times, and made over $5,000 in three months, by using from $50 to $500 capital. By this system, orders from thousands of customers, in various sums, are pooled in-to one immense capital, and operated as a mighty whole, thus giving to shareholder all the advantages of vast capital and shrewdest skill. Profits are ivided every thirty days. Any amount from $10 to $75,000 can be used in Messrs. Lawrence & Co.'s combinations with equal proportionate success. $15 will make $75 profit in the month. $200 will return $1,600, or 8 per cent. on the stock, and so as the market varies. The new circular gives "two unerring rules for success," and shows how any one can operate profitably. Mailed free. Stocks and bonds wanted. Government bonds supplied. This is decidedly the most useful, besides being the most efficient Family Medicine ever placed within the reach of any people. Its reputation extends far and wide, and its great popularity is due entirely to its own merits. For relieving Sick and Nervous Headache, it may be truly said, to have no equal Dyspeptics find it just the remedy for their troubles. Mothers and daughters have long since discovered in its use a "panacea" for their worst ills; and now we have the testimonies of two eminent ministers of the gospel, from Southern cities, setting forth its specific effects in other more dreaded and
